

Crawford Livestock Market

Market report for January 13, 2023-Had some good cows go to feed this week bringing $65.50 up to $75.50 which is a start considering feeders are battling getting their fat, fed cows out the door to packers. Slaughter cows were up a couple dollars this week with the top end bringing $67.50-$75.50, the next cut bringing $59-$64.50. The thinner, lower yielding cows were $56-$64.50. The better slaughter bulls were $94.50-$107.50 with most of them being casualties of the bitter cold weather we experienced the last month. Heiferettes were $87-$103 on a light test. A limited test on open heifers was $136-$150. After lunch we sold 463 bred heifers and cows. We had good initial support to start both in house and the internet was very active, and it helped propel us through the day. Short feed in the hay yards and recent winter weather has put a damper on where we could have gotten to, but all in all it was another successful day.

Next week we will be back at it at 9:30AM on weighups and 4,500+ feeders to follow at 11AM, with 30 contestants from around the United States to sell our stock in the Greater Midwest Livestock Auctioneer Contest. Tune into CattleUSA.com to view the sale. Thank you to the continued support of our consignors, buyers and crew!
